Palettes

Folding Palettes- Mijello plastic-basic one - blue and pink but I like the Bulletproof folding palette because it can take a beating and the mixing areas are stainproof.

Tom Lynch Porcelain Palette

The surface of this porcelain palette prevents the beading and separating of watercolors. Porcelain also prolongs paint moisture and is a breeze to clean.

Paper, Tape and Support Boards

Cold Press or Rough- 140 or 300 lb sheets -
Favorite Manufacturers

Arches

Fabriano

Waterford Saunders

Alternate Papers for more experimental work

Ampersand Clayboard, Aquaboard

Strathmore Plate Bristol 4ply 500 series

Yupo 140lb

White Artist Tape

A tape that can stand up to getting wet.
Use white tape because any other color will influence your perception of the colors you are using to paint.

Support Board - Gatorboard

Gator Board has a very rigid poly surface which is resistant to moisture, unlike foam board which is foam covered with lightweight paper stock.

Gator Board is an extruded polystyrene foam encased between layers of a melamine and wood fiber veneer. Gatorfoam / Gator Board has a much harder outer surface than other foam core boards and resists warping.

Basic Plein Air Supplies for Watercolor Painting

Tripod

Ultra light Tripod that folds back on itself - I have a Sirui but there are many brands - just be sure you have the head to go with the easel pieces.

Travel Adaptor - Sun Eden - <https://sun-eden.com/product/traveling-adaptor-to-hold-canvas-panels/>

You may also want an artist shelf - <https://sun-eden.com/product/suneden-artist-shelf/>

Faber-Castell Red Range - The Fun And Versatile Collapsible Water Cup And Brushes!

Umbrella- <http://www.artworkessentials.com/products/umk-45/umk45.htm>

Sketch book and black sharpie marker and small selection of prismacolor pencils for doing preliminary studies.

Some kind of backpack to put everything in and of course supplies for your personal comfort- sunscreen, hat, coat, bug spray etc...
